

Internship regulations
for the master's programme „Biofabrication”
at the University of Bayreuth

Approved version dated 26.4.2023

In the master's programmes in engineering at the University of Bayreuth, industrial internships are defined as a prerequisite for admission to study. These internships should be equivalent to the industrial internship of at least one the bachelor's programmes in engineering at the University of Bayreuth.

The duration and the latest possible time of the evidence of the industrial internship are governed by the relevant examination regulations.

The present regulations shall take effect on the day following their publication.